WILLIAM BULGER, JR.

(Transcript from 3:03 to 3:53)

JAMES: Yeah. The father was a nice guy, he owned a bar room over on Savin Hill.

WILLIAM JR: Oh, is that the one up on Savin Hill Ave.?

JAMES: Yeah.

WILLIAM JR: Yeah, I know where it is.

JAMES: Yeah.

WILLIAM JR: It used to be Bulldogs I think, Donovan owned it, now -- well he had it for a while. I know the place. Yeah, on the corner there.

JAMES: Yeah it was --

WILLIAM JR: That used to be old Moakley's right?

JAMES: Yeah, that was Moakley's Bar.

WILLIAM JR: Yeah.

JAMES: And then uh -- Bulldogs was um -- Eddie Connors --

WILLIAM JR: Um-hmm.

JAMES: The guy in the phone booth.

WILLIAM JR: Yeah, yeah.

JAMES: (Whispers) Pa-pa-pa-pa-pow.

WILLIAM JR: Yeah.

JAMES: That's -- they said that I -- something, I don't know. I forget what they said.

WILLIAM JR: Yeah.

JAMES: Somebody threw my name in the mix.

WILLIAM JR: Right.

DAUGHTER: Mmm.

WILLIAM JR: As usual. Yeah.

JAMES: Yeah. To-to-to-to-to-to-to-to-to.

DAUGHTER: (Unintelligible)

JAMES: But anyway's that is what happened.

DAUGHTER: Yeah.

JAMES: Yeah.

WILLIAM JR: Yeah.
